One Nation gender bill welcomed

A Bill to prohibit the teaching of radical gender ideology in SA schools is welcome news, according to FamilyVoice Australia.

One Nation MP Sarah Game has announced she will introduce an Education and Children's Services (Parental Primacy) Amendment Bill 2024 to prohibit gender ideology and gender fluidity in the classroom.

The Bill comes after revelations that children were recently taught about bestiality at an SA government school.

“Radical gender ideology has no place in the classroom and serves only to confuse children”, said FamilyVoice spokesman David d’Lima.

“It’s time for government to clean up the classrooms, by re-asserting the historic rights of parents who are upset by lessons on gender fluidity and the queer ideology.

“We call on State Parliament to support the One Nation proposal advanced by MP Sarah Game, that clarifies what society has understood until recently.

“Children do not belong to the State, and it is parents who have the primacy of responsibility for their education.”
