Parliament Losing The Plot

Christian advocacy group FamilyVoice Australia says the South Australian Parliament is losing the plot by denying creational reality in its decision to demand the use of gender-neutral language.

“We are very disappointed that State Parliament is unable to accept and celebrate the binary nature of humanity,” said FamilyVoice gender spokesman David d’Lima.

“Parliament is losing the plot if it sees a need to deny biological reality,” he said.

“No matter how much MPs pretend otherwise, God has made people male or female, and no good purpose is served by gender neutrality in communication.

“It panders to a silly trend that can only bring about further gender confusion.

“Parliament has long guarded its privileges concerning unfettered expression, and MPs should not gag themselves by pretending gender somehow doesn’t exist.”
