Australia should follow UK gender ruling

Christian advocacy group FamilyVoice Australia has welcomed a UK judgement to recognise biological gender and is calling on the federal government to take action to protect against harmful gender intervention.

“Full marks to the UK Supreme Court that has defied Britain’s woke ideology and has ruled in favour of biological reality,” FamilyVoice spokesman David d’Lima said.

“Every court should uphold the truth and the facts, regardless of the self-assertion of people confused about gender identity.”

FamilyVoice is calling for a nationwide ban on any further radical gender intervention across Australia, and is urging the federal government to encourage gender-confused people to seek counselling.

“As federal funding applies to radical gender intervention, it should be removed from the national budget,” David d’Lima said.

“Whichever government wins the election should pass human rights legislation to overrule the recent NSW law that totally undermines the freedom of confused people to seek wise counsel.”
