Follow the UK PM on unscientific gender ideology

Christian advocacy group FamilyVoice Australia urges Australian governments to follow the UK approach to sex education.

“UK Prime Minister Rishi Sunak has set a fantastic example by resolving to remove inappropriate relationship and sex education classes from schools,” said FamilyVoice gender spokesman David d’Lima.

“He rightly recognises the unscientific character of trendy gender fluidity.”

FamilyVoice Australia is urging governments in Australia to remove radical gender theory from schools.

“Children should be taught that human beings are made male and female, in recognition of the complementary and distinctive nature of sexuality.”
